

Carl G. Hamm, CFRE
Deputy Director
Development and External Affairs
Saint Louis Art Museum

Carl Hamm has 25 years of experience in the non-profit sector in development, marketing and executive positions. A Certified Fund Raising Executive since 1998, he has worked with organizations representing practically every discipline of the arts, from public radio and chamber music to theater, ballet and the visual arts. Before moving to St. Louis, he served as a Senior Vice President for the Fort Worth Museum of Science and History. He has also directed annual giving programs for the Dallas Museum of Art and Children's Medical Center of Dallas.

Hamm has served on numerous boards and professional committees and spoken on fund raising and marketing in a variety of settings, including the Association of Fund Raising Professionals (AFP) International Conference, the Direct Marketing Association's Non Profit Day in New York, the Art Museum Development Association (AMDA) annual conference, the national conference for PBS affiliate stations, and ten annual meetings of the American Alliance of Museums (AAM). In 2011, he was invited by the Arts Council of England to speak on the American system of philanthropy.

Hamm is a past president of the Art Museum Development Association, a past chair of the American Alliance of Museums' Standing Professional Committee on Development and Membership (DAM), and a former chair of AAM's Council of Standing Professional Committees.
